

CCC and CQC Certification - Mainland China

Ensure your product's conformity with the Chinese market's requirements and obtain the CCC (mandatory) and CQC (voluntary) markings

The Chinese authorities apply different certification schemes based on the product. Because of this, identifying and managing the appropriate certification process can be complex. To help your products gain access to the Chinese market, you need a partner who is present in both China and the country of production, and who is a specialist in Chinese certification processes.

The CCC mark is a mandatory certification for more than 200 products and establishes the applicable safety and quality requirements, as well as the product testing procedures and production audits to be followed.

The CQC marking is a voluntary certification that validates the quality, safety and features of the products beyond the mandatory requirements.

Our solution

Applus+ is your best partner for exports to China and to obtain the CCC and CQC certifications. We are solidly implanted in the Chinese market with more than 10 offices and our own testing laboratories.

Our service includes:

- Advice on technical standards and determining the type of certification applicable to the product
- Preparing, reviewing and translating all the necessary documents (including technical data sheets and instructions)
- Managing the tests in the official Chinese laboratories

- Preparing and monitoring the production process audit
- Monitoring the certification process in China to ensure its success

We adapt to our clients' production characteristics; and we are present in the most important production points in the world (Europe, Asia and America), with a network of qualified technicians to perform the corresponding inspections and controls wherever your business requires them.

Applus+ has the necessary qualifications and agreements in place to help your company access the global market ensuring your products conform to the most important international certifications.

Benefits

- A single partner, Applus+, to ensure compliance with Chinese entry requirements (tests, audits and certification)
- Perform the certifications applicable to your product to access new international markets with Applus+